

I'm not robot!

You feel like fate is testing you. Temperance is about connecting with your Self. It shows up in a reading when there are seemingly loose parts and these parts need to be put together in a new way in order to create a new situation or state of mind. This new situation or state of mind then makes more sense to you and your Self. It makes you re-evaluate your attitude.

This daily card will give you insight on what to expect today in general, enabling you to take advantage of the assets and dodge the downfalls. What better way to start your day than to get a glimpse at the cosmic vibe? Pages in the Tarot are news bearers, and as such, when we see a Page arrive, news is often on its way. Pages can thus represent messages that are on the way, or they can represent people in a younger age group (usually 18-25). When the Page of Cups arrives in your day, you are being told that you may get some news about love, or you may be called upon to open your heart a little bit. Cups are creative and not just focused on love and emotions. It may be a good day to do some artistic work, whether that is music or painting; Anything that enables you to tap into your creative side, let it out. In love readings, this Page is telling you that a love message is on its way, or maybe it's time to let some of your love out and tell someone how you feel. The Page of Cups also represents Pisces, so an event or experience involving a Pisces may be on its way to you. Page 2 Tarot cards and daily horoscopes are great for providing insight into your life, but what if you encounter a seemingly negative reading that portends bad news? First of all, don't freak out! Bad news and difficult situations can be a blessing in disguise. Those who go to their tarot cards or horoscope seek answers to all sorts of questions, and we don't always get the answer we're hoping for. If that's the case for you, we present you with an action plan that can help you accept and cope with the not-so-great news. Embrace the message and plan for brighter days ahead. If that's the case for you, we present your action plan on what to do if your Tarot reading or Daily Horoscopes gives you some not so great news. Hint: Don't freak out. Step 1: Consider the Placement of the Tarot Cards Seeing a "negative" card appear in your Tarot reading can be frightening. The first thing to look at is the card's placement - the physical location of the card in the Tarot spread. The tarot cards in your reading are laid out on the table in a specific pattern. The spread helps determine the actual meaning for each card as it relates to your life. Spreads feature past, present and future outlooks, based on their placement. • Past: If your negative Tarot card is placed in the past, the negative situation is behind you. • Present: If the negative tarot cards are in the present (Which may be the reason you're getting the reading in the first place.), this negative energy is moving out of your life. • Future: If the negative Tarot cards are in the future, you have the ability to change the course of events - or at least take control of them. If you don't make the proper adjustments to your life, that negative situation may still occur. Placement is your biggest clue when it comes to the not-so-happy cards showing up in your Tarot reading. If you are reading something in your Daily and Weekly Horoscopes and get upset about some potentially negative news, again, don't freak out. The horoscopes are much like your weather forecast and are created using the astrological weather patterns. Sometimes stormy clouds pass right over us, even when the meteorologist is telling us to brace for it! Don't freak out if the horoscopes hint at trouble either. Prepare for it emotionally, but know that this too shall pass, like every other storm. Step 2: Avoid the Power of Negative Thought There's a belief that negative thoughts become realized if you spend your days worrying about the worst that could happen. This is called the Law of Attraction. When it comes to using Tarot cards wisely, or using your Daily Horoscopes wisely, the key is to not become your own worst enemy, which is called being human and very easy to do. Don't do that. By obsessing on the negative, you might actually cause negative situations. Thoughts become things' is the Law of Attraction. Beyond the mental trauma caused by constantly harping on the worst possible scenarios, there's also a physical toll - lethargy, stress, reactivity... and it's easy to attract double trouble if that's all you're focusing on. Remember that one negative card or horoscope does not dictate your entire life. Focus on the positive tarot cards while remaining aware of the negative. Step 3: Have an Open Mind. The best way to get the most out of your Tarot cards is to be as open as possible to all scenarios. You don't get a reading to confirm what you want to happen; you get one to confirm what is happening and why, and the possible outcomes. Put away your fears and expectations and just let the process unfold. Not everything is going to be a major thing. If you see a Major Arcana card, that has no suits on it, a major life event is on its way to you, or has happened to you. Examples of Major Arcana cards are The Lovers, Death, The Star, and The Sun. There are 22 of these in the Tarot. A Minor Arcana card that has suits such as cups, pentacles, swords, or wands represents things happening in the day to day grind of life. These are numbered from 1 to 10 in each suit, with aces representing number 1 in the Tarot. Not everything in a Tarot reading is going to change your life, and the same goes for your horoscopes. Examples of Minor Arcana cards include the 10 of cups, the 3 of pentacles, the 6 of wands, and the ace of swords. Many times, we book Tarot readings to answer specific questions, closing ourselves off to other issues that may need addressing, but the Tarot cards and horoscopes don't lie. They always reveal an answer, sometimes just not the one we were hoping for. Remember to focus on the light cards that do show up (as they always will.). This will help you be more open to any negative news that may arise. Step 4: Make an Action Plan. Getting great news in a Tarot reading or your Daily or Weekly Horoscopes is one thing. Actually obtaining the wonderful things you've been told while avoiding or confronting the negative, is a whole other challenge. The goal is to leave your readings with an action plan, a tactic to address the answers you were just given. When you have that, negative news from a reading means much less. You already know what you're going to do about it. A good Tarot reader will ask you, in those last few minutes of your consultation, if you have any questions. Here's your response: "What is my action plan to reach these goals?" They'll either know the answer right away, or they will pull a couple of more cards for you to get that answer. Either way, a good reader will not let you leave without that question answered. Concluding Thoughts... There you have it! 4 easy steps to handling negative news from your Tarot cards or from your Daily or Weekly Horoscopes. Hey, life is a box of chocolates, but sometimes the picks are duds. Not every moment in life is going to be rosy. We want you to be prepared for the less than stellar ones, without letting it wear you down. Stay positive, and know that no matter what storm comes your way, never forget that no storm lasts forever. Good news is just another horoscope or Tarot reading away! Let the Tarot Guide You Page 3 You may have heard we had a full moon on Saturday. Quite possibly you saw or experienced the things you were working towards or manifesting show up or some of the changes you were working on come through. We can use moon energy to carve a path through the weeds of our subconscious, especially because we are in a Mercury retrograde. In case you're not familiar with the two main phases of the moon cycle, we start things with the building energy between a new moon and full moon. We then follow up on the release of what we don't need to focus on from the full moon to the new moon. Right now we are in the release and follow up stage moving towards the new moon on April 15. This time between the full and new moon isn't to be wasted though, it is just as important as setting your intention on the new moon. Here are 5 ways you can use moon energy to reach your goals this week. Cut Out Relationships That Drain You I'm not going to sugar coat this. Many of us waste time with negative or fear-based people who aren't passionately and fearlessly following their heart. They distract us, make us complacent and drain our energy by following the status quo or by trying to play by the rules to keep up with appearances. Sometimes we need to get real with those we allow in our life who have never and will never treat us with the respect and love we deserve. Now is a great time to say sayonara. Even if you've been friends 20 years or they are a close family member, it doesn't mean they are worthy of your time. Evaluate your relationships in meditation asking, "Is this person helping me make the world a better place or are they standing in the way of me fulfilling my soul's purpose?" Let Go of Projects That Don't Serve Your Main Goal Sometimes we subconsciously create chaos to make it seem like we don't have the time, money or clarity to face our fear of what we really in our heart want to do. Did you sign up to lead another committee, offer to plan a party, or say yes to attending 5 destination weddings? What have you obligated yourself to do that is detracting from you solely focusing on your soul purpose, your ultimate goal that will offer you sustained happiness? Maybe you're allowing people to make you feel you should be out on dates instead of working passionately towards your goal. Journal about the distractions that may be unconsciously pulling on your time and energy and clean house. Finish Small Tasks You've Been Putting Off This is a good time to tie up loose ends and essentially get those little things done. Whether it's stocking up your bathroom supplies, paying bills, cleaning the messy car, these are all things that will allow you to have the time and energy to fully put into planting seeds after the new moon. Create some organization and clean space so you can have the same clarity in your mind as in your environment. People who are experts in feng shui swear by the benefits of having clean and clear energy when it comes to success. Read more about how to apply feng shui in this Vogue article. Look at Your Diet and See What Needs to Go Really though. Our habits become so second nature that we often don't realize how much harder we are making our lives by eating or drinking certain things. Sometimes it's that we aren't eating and drinking at all and that's draining our energy or making us anxious. Fill your pantry with healthy snacks and get some foods that really say, "I'm worth it." Throw out the processed stuff and everything that doesn't make you feel good. Try out some new recipes that will help you create habits of self love that will fuel your willpower and confidence. Don't give into pressure from your environment to be complacent in this department because it will inevitably detract from your ability to have the energy necessary to really reach your goals or even perceive of the possibility that you're capable of anything! Clear out Emotional Weight with Journaling Sit quietly once or even twice a day and ask what perspectives are holding you back. Maybe it's a routine in your life that is stalling you from moving forward, maybe it's a jaded perspective from a hard experience you have, maybe it's fear from things your parents told you. Write it out and let yourself be free from the thoughts that aren't serving you. This emotional inventory can help lighten your load so that when an opportunity does present itself, you'll seize it because you see it. Sometimes our unconscious thoughts or old stored emotions are so thick that we can't see through the windshield to notice what may be right in front of us. Conclusion If you want to learn more about how to use the moon cycles to manifest, check out this article! When it comes to success, your internal process is the most important part. Timing your actions with the moon cycles is extremely helpful as well as creating the thoughts that fuel you instead of extinguish your flame. What are you passionate about? What affirmations will help you move past the fears that may be holding you back? Maybe get some books about reaching goals that resonate with you, join a yoga studio to build confidence and improve your diet to improve your energy. Success is about enthusiasm, trying new things and more than anything it comes from a lifestyle that is about health and empowered thinking. Study the secrets of those you admire and they will help you reach your goals! Your body has so much energy that it can tap into if you make time to work at unravelling the belief systems that aren't serving you.
